Rev. Michael Gott's Final 2014 Southern California Appearance

New Thought Musical Minister Offers Workshop "Living on Purpose" April 27 at Center for Spiritual Living Capistrano Valley

San Clemente, Calif. (April 2, 2014) -- Rev. Michael Gott, known as the musical minister in new-thought centers throughout the country, visits San Clemente for his last Southern California performance this year on Sunday, April 27, to offer heart-opening music combined with an empowering workshop titled "Living on Purpose" at the Center for Spiritual Living Capistrano Valley.

Gott will be the featured speaker at the Sunday service starting at 10:30 a.m. and then will offer his workshop from 1 to 4 p.m. The workshop is provided on a love-offering basis.

"We are so excited to have Michael visiting our Center," said Rev. Heather Dawn Clark, senior minister for the Center. "Michael has full-time responsibilities at his home church in Houston and he doesn't travel very often so we are incredibly honored to have him here this month! I guarantee, not only will you get an amazingly uplifting performance, but also a message that will inspire your life."

Here's what Gott has to say about his workshop titled "Living on Purpose: Discover your calling. Activate your gift.":

Each of us comes fully equipped with a unique set of gifts, talents, desires and interests. How do we connect who we ARE with what we DO in the world? This workshop offers specific tools to put you in touch with your inner wisdom and your own divine spark that will lead you to a new understanding of Jesus' statement ~ "Don't you know? You are the light of the world."

The workshop will feature tools for manifesting dreams into lived experiences; dynamic and inspiring music; and the opportunity to ask question that will activate your personal vision.

Since 2013, Gott has been the assistant minister and choir director at Unity of Houston. With his background in disparate musical disciplines such as gospel, pop, opera, musical theater, classical piano and jazz, he has developed a unique performance style that is exciting, engaging and heartfelt.

Gott travels throughout North America and Europe, singing and speaking at conferences and spiritual centers. In recent years, he has shared the stage with internationally known personalities such as Dr. Wayne Dyer, Dr. Deepak Chopra, Marianne Williamson and others.
